

1

Abstract

2 A method an apparatus uses a variational approach for space dependent gamut mapping.
3 The method presents a new measure for the problem. A solution to the formulation
4 according to the method is unique if the gamut of the target device is known. A quadratic
5 programming efficient numerical solution provides real-time results.

Technical Specification